The Medicine that Cures
IS VEGETINE.
Taking into consideration the character of its vouchers, the history of its cures and the immense increasing demand, VEGETINE may be fairly entitled the leading medicine of the age.
For scrofula in the blood, VEGETINE is an infallible remedy, and no person need suffer from tumors, ulcers, and all diseases arising from impure blood, if VEGETINE is used according to directions. There is not a case of scrofula in existence that VEGETINE will not cure, provided, however, the vital functions have not lost their power of action, all that may be said to the contrary notwithstanding.
VEGETINE is pleasant to the taste, mild in its influence, and absolute in its action on disease, as the following unquestionable evidence will show.
PAID NEARLY
JANUARY 2, 1875.
H. R. STEVENS, Esq:
Dear Sir: When about six months old I was vaccinated. The parties who were vaccinated from the same virus died from the humor. The humor spread over me to such an extent that I was rolled in bran to prevent me from scratching my person. The disease finally settled in my head. I remained in this condition about twenty years, troubled all the time with sores breaking in my head and discharging corruption from my ear. At this time a small kernel appeared on my neck, gradually increasing in size until a tumor formed of such immense size I could see it by turning my eyes downward. All this time I was taking various remedies for my blood without any substantial benefit.
I then went to a prominent physician in Boston who, during his treatment of six months, lanced the tumor eight times, which cost me nearly $400. This left me with a rough, aggravated sore, without at all diminishing the size of the tumor, and in a sickly, feeble condition. I consulted another physician in Natick, who, after considerable time, succeeded in healing the sore without reducing the size. At this point I commenced to use VEGETINE, through the earnest persuasion of a friend. After I had taken this medicine about one week I experienced wonderful sensations. My whole body seemed to be undergoing a radical change, until, finally, the tumor broke and discharged frightful quantities. From this time it decreased in size until the bunch disappeared, but my neck still bears the ugly scars of the sore and the lance. I am now healthy and strong and able to work every day.
I will also mention that I have been an acute sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism ever since I can remember, until commencing the use of VEGETINE, when almost immediately all rheumatic pains ceased. This statement I volunteer for the purpose of benefiting other suffering humanity; and you will confer a favor by giving it as much publicity as thought proper. Very gratefully,
O. M. SAVELS, Ashland, Mass.

What is Vegetine?
It is a compound extracted from barks, roots and herbs. It is nature's remedy. It is perfectly harmless from any bad effect upon the system. It is nourishing and strengthening. It acts directly upon the blood. It quiets the nervous system. It gives you a good, sweet sleep at night. It is a great panacea for our aged fathers and mothers, for it gives them strength, quiets their nerves, and gives them nature's sweet sleep—as has been proved by many an aged person. It is the great Blood Purifier. It is a soothing remedy for our children. It has relieved and cured thousands. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it. It relieves and cures all diseases originating from impure blood. Try the VEGETINE. Give it a fair trial for your complaint; then you will say to your friend, neighbor and acquaintance. "Try it, it has cured me."
Report from a Practical Chemist and Apothecary.
BOSTON, Jan. 1, 1874.
Dear Sir: This is to certify that I have sold at retail 1515 dozen (1852 bottles) of your VEGETINE since April 12, 1870, and can truly say that it has given me best satisfaction of any remedy for the complaints for which it is recommended that I ever sold. Scarcely a day passes without some of my customers testifying to its merits on themselves or their friends. I am perfectly cognizant of several cases of scrofulous Tumors being cured by VEGETINE alone in this vicinity. Very respectfully yours,
A. J. GILMAN, 404 Broadway.

MATHEMATICS FOR THE MILLION.

WHAT CAN BE DONE WITH FIGURES.—"WHEW!"—A CHESS PLAYER'S REWARD.—A LITTLE EXAMPLE IN COMPOUND INTEREST.—TRANSPOSITIONS OF LETTERS.—AN INGENIOUS FEATURE OF A FESTIVAL.—"PROVE IT BY COUNTING."

Mathematical problems are in a measure akin to puzzles. There is something exciting in the boldness with which our understanding is challenged to prove its strength, and it imparts a feeling of satisfaction to unravel mysteries which have for a time baffled our efforts. Such mental exercises have in all ages been attractive to both young and old, and for this reason we think our readers will be amused by some reflections concerning an algebraic quantity which has cleverly been designated "Whew." It consists of three 9s, the second as the exponent of the first and the third as the exponent of the second, which means that 9 shall first be multiplied nine times by itself, viz: 9x9x9x9x9x9x9x9x9, giving the number 387,420,080. The product thus found indicates how many times 9 a second time is to be multiplied by itself; but what 9 multiplied 387,420,489 times by itself gives as a product is not so easily figured out as the former multiplication. It would require 359,693,100 ciphers, and to count it, working ten hours daily, would take 15 years and 230 days, not to mention the time passed in computation.

Scientists tell us there are infusoria so small that 40,000,000,000 of such are found in one cubic inch of water. A ball the size of the globe would contain 2,420,003,000 000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000, or two sextillions four hundred and twenty nine thousand and ninety three quintillions of such animals. But this numbers far from being "whew." A ball that should be able to hold "whew" of the infusoria here mentioned at the rate of 40,000,000,000 to the cubic inch of water, would contain an inconceivable number of globes, for the distance between the surface of such a ball and its centre would require 554,589,612 ciphers for its expression in miles. How great a length such a number of miles would have can be seen from the following comparison:

Light travels 192,000 miles a second, thus using eight minutes and thirteen seconds to traverse the distance from the sun to the earth. But to accomplish the distance from the surface of the aforesaid ball to its centre light would need a number of years written with 123,231,012 figures.

Still another relation may serve to show "whew" crushing dimensions. Light accomplishes in every second about five hundred billions of oscillations, a number so great that the loudest note ever mensured, which makes 35,000 vibrations in a second, must sound 440 years to perform so many vibrations. But although in order to traverse the radius of the above-mentioned ball light would require this vast number of years, yet it does not more than infinitesimally approach the "whew" vibrations.

The story of the inventor of the game of chess is well known. The king of India bade him name his own reward, upon which he asked to receive the number of grains of wheat that would be produced if one grain of wheat were paid him for the first square on the chess-board, two for the second, four for the third, eight for the fourth and so on doubled up for every square of the sixty-four. When these amounts were added the sum was found to be 18,446,744,073,709,551,-615 of grains, or in other words, such a quantity that therewith all the continents of the earth could be covered with a layer one-third of an inch in thickness, and that if the same ground were sown with wheat in the proper manner it would take more than seventy years to produce the above amount of wheat, which is equal to thirty-four billion bushels.

One stands aghast before this number, and still it is next to nothing as compared with "whew," for if we were in the same manner to double up the amount until it reached "whew" number of grains the chess board, instead of having 64 squares, must have had 1,228,098,804 squares, in which case if each square had one square inch of surface the space covered would be in area equal to 193 acres.

We once saw some calculations, less indeed in proportion than "whew," yet of a character not less astounding, in which numbers hardly to be conceived of were made in a measure comprehensible by being compared with quantities of a more familiar nature.

For instance, if one cent were set out at compound interest in the year 1 at four per cent, the 1st of January, 1866, it would amount to 1 quintillion, 231,458 quadrillions, 382,000 trillions of dollars. If we were to take this sum as a capital and would use its yearly interest (four per cent.), then the income tax we should have to pay at the rate of one per cent. would be 180 quadrillions 583,320 trillions of dollars. If we paid the tax collector this sum in silver he would need 2,008,645,000,000,000,000,000 wagons for its transportation. Provided the whole earth's surface, both land and water, were peopled as closely as possible; we should have but 1-2,000,000 part of the drivers required, and the line of wagons would have a length of 8 trillions 442,000 billions of miles. The speed of light, as mentioned, is 192,000 miles per second, and it would take 743,600 years to reach the collector, beginning at the farthest wagon, if he, to have better control over the wagons on both sides, stationed himself in the centre of the line. Again, a robbery could be committed on the hindmost wagon which would not be discovered till the 24,730th generation of tax collectors. If, on the contrary, instead of using the interest of the capital—the bulk of which, by the bye, in gold would be equal to 44 globes—this capital were distributed amongst the people of the earth, each one of its 1,000,000,000 of inhabitants would receive about 1200 trillions of dollars to live on, and could every second use $2,000,000 for 38,006,000 years without reaching the bottom of his purse.

Again, in another place, in an article on anagrams or transpositions of letters, similar examples are given as to the rapidity with which numbers will increase. We find, then, that two letters can be changed 1x2 times; 3 letters 1x2x3 or six times; 4 letters 1x2x3x4 or 24 times; 5 letters 1x2x3x4x5 or 120 times; which is enough to illustrate the point. The transpositions grow in numbers so quickly that while, for instance, the word "Dame" can be subjected to the following: Dame, daem, dmea, deam; dema, adme, adem, amde, amed, aedm, aemd, mdae, mdea, made, maed, mead, meda, edam, edma, eadm, eamd, emda, emad, the word "periodical," that contains 10 letters, can be transposed 4,628,803 times, and 24 letters can be changed 620,448,401,733,239,-439,360,000 of times, all of which changes, according to Euler, could not be written by the population of the whole world in 1000 years if each one were to write 10 pages with 40 transpositions on each.

When King Stanislaus of Poland, then a young man, came back from a journey the whole Lesczinskin House gathered together at Lissa to receive him. The master of the school, Jablowsky, prepared a school festival in commemoration of the joyous event, and had it end with a ballet performed by thirteen students, dressed as young cavaliers. Each had a shield upon which one of the letters of the words "Domus Lescinia" ("The Lesczinskin House") was written in gold. After the first dance they stood in such a manner that their shields read "Domus Lescinia;" after the second dance they changed order, making it read, "Adeo incolumnus" ("Unharmed art thou here!"); after the third, "Mane sidus loci" ("Continue to be a star for the country"); after the fourth, "Sis columna del" ("Be a pillar of God"), and finally, "Tuscanda sollum!" ("Go, and ascend thy throne!") Indeed, these two words allow of 1,256,755,200 transpositions, yet that four of them convey independent meanings is certainly very curious.

If we pass from the sphere of letters to other objects we are struck by the strange discovery that twelve persons can interchange their respective positions 479,001,600 times, which number of changes it would take them not less than 1848 years to accomplish, if they moved once every minute for twelve consecutive hours daily.

Card players who are continually bewailing their ill-luck of always receiving the same poor cards will, perhaps, be assured by knowing that the fifty-two cards, with thirteen to each of the four players, can be distributed in 55,644,737,736,488,792,287,-440,000 different ways, so that there would still be a good stock of combinations to draw from, even if man from Adam's time had devoted himself to no other occupation than that of playing at cards.

Unbelievers who, if not able to master the foregoing assertions, cannot, even in the face of mathematics, refrain from shaking their heads with a doubt as to their correctness, we shall in conclusion soothe with an experiment, of whose correctness they can convince themselves with a small amount of patience. In the following figure the sentence, "Prove it by counting" is read from the middle "P" toward the four "g's" in the corners, in several different ways—15,760, if mathematics are to be trusted.

That there is a rich variation of the different directions in which this can be done is readily seen; whether, on the other hand, the variations are so numerous as the above number indicates is a matter about which our readers may satisfy themselves, by—counting.—[From the Danish.

THE NEW TELEGRAPH MACHINE.—Stansbury, one of the wealthy residents of the town of C., recently put a fire and burglar alarm telegraph apparatus in his residence. Not that he has any expectations of being robbed or that he will ever need the fire department around his house, but he's been thinking of late of the possibility of the evil of such calamities occurring at any time and of not having any assistance on hand. He formerly believed in firearms, but in the last disturbance at his house he shot at a streak of moonlight, and it cost two dollars next day to get the looking-glass patched. He had the new machine placed over his bed at easy distance for reaching. He asked friend Gibson to come around that night and see how the thing worked, and to explain to him the wonderful power of the electric fluid, Gibson said. "In case you require assistance from the police you press this knob [pressing it], and when requiring the fire department you push this one [suiting the action to the word]. They are connected with the different places, and they of course summon." "I believe I understand the way it works," said G., thoughtfully; "you put this knob in, as I said, in case of requiring the police, and this one for the fire department" [at the same time pushing both in again]. "Yes," said Stansbury, "it's very simple; a child could work it easy. When it gets out of order the company have kindly volunteered to repair—" "Moses and Aaron," cried Gibson; "Where's the fire?" And he ran to the window while Stansbury made for the front door and opened it to look out when a stream of water, forty-horse power, knocked him clean back over the hat rack. The foreman was busily playing steam through the basement window at a set of Lake George diamonds, the only thing visible reflecting a light, while the police force were all sitting around on barrels, writing for the appearance of a blaze. Stansbury at last got in a full explanation of the dreadful mistake. The police went home disgusted, and the water tax gas rised two and a half per cent. next day, and Stansbury got a warrant from the official board to keep the peace in bad of $5000. Stansbury don't use any more telegraph in his house. He says he'd just as soon meet a burglar with one of his last year's arctic over-shoes as to have the instrument around.—[Danbury News.

FIRE ALARM REGULATIONS.

To send out an alarm.

Any person who discovers a fire is requested to immediately give the alarm by crying fire, and, going to the box nearest the fire, to send out a general alarm by procuring the key, unlocking the box, and firmly pulling the hook down, once only, then closing the door, being careful to see that it is locked, and returning the key.

The person sending out an alarm from a box is requested to remain near said box until the first engine arrives, to direct the firemen to the exact locality of the fire.

Cautions.

Never pull a box if the small gong inside is striking or the machinery of the box is heard running.

Do not pull a box for a fire seen at a distance, or unless you are aware of the locality of a fire.

Key holders are requested not to allow their keys to be taken except by responsible parties.

Bell Ringers.

Bell ringers are engaged to ring the following church bells in connection with the telegraphic alarm:

The First and North Baptist, United Congregational and Emmanuel with instructions to ring their respective bells for five minutes immediately after the telegraphic alarm has completed its four rounds and then to repeat eight times the number of the box from which the alarm is sent.

Recall.

Nine blows upon the telegraphic alarm bells will indicate that the fire is out and that the services of the department are not required.

Testing the Apparatus.

One stroke on the bells by the telegraphic alarm will simply indicate that the apparatus is in good order.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1875.

THE DAY.

The cotton crop this year is likely to be a little larger than it was last year.

The Rev. Dr. Budington sustains Mrs. Moulton in asking a Congregational council to settle the troubles existing between herself and Mr. Beecher.

The amount of property destroyed in London and its neighborhood by the high tides of the past two days is estimated at $5,000,000, besides the loss of a large number of vessels.

Intelligence via London states that a Turkish army was surrounded recently by three thousand Herzegovinian troops near Gatschko; an engagement ensued in which the insurgents were victorious, the Turks having from 800 to 1000 men killed, besides losing their baggage, ammunition and several cannon.

The speech, if so formal a term may be used, which Judge Bradley made to the Providence county bar on the adoption of resolutions of respect to the late Hon. Thomas A. Jenckes, was everything that such a speech should be. It was full of reminiscences, but just familiar, it was eulogistic, but discriminating, it was elegant, but devoid of oratorical attempt. He paid the following high compliment to the memory of Mr. Jenckes; "Having had occasion along through life to meet various members of the profession in this country, among them Pettigrew, the best lawyer of the South, wise enough never to go to Washington; Meredith, the strongest man in the profession in our Central states, and our own Curtis, of the North, I believed that in massive intellectual force, Thomas A. Jenckes was the equal of any of them. That he was a great man no one doubts." Judge Bradly referred to the fact that Mr. Jenckes was the first member of Congress to make nominations to West Point and Annapolis after competitive examinations.

The steam roller, which was imported from England, a year ago, for use in the street department, has been housed, as a matter of economy. It has been suggested that the city sell it, with other superfluous property, and thus raise the wind for necessary repairs on the streets, for which no means are apparent, the appropriations having, as previously stated, been exhausted.—[Providence Press.

Of course it's been housed. It isn't customary to make roads in the Winter, and people of sense usually house machinery and tools that are not in use. The steam fire engines are housed as a matter of economy, but that isn't equivalent to saying that they are superfluous, or that the city could afford to sell them. And yet it would be better for the city to sell one of the four steamers than to sell the steam roller. Superfluous? So are the locomotives on the Old Colony Railroad, for people used to go to Boston before they were thought of. Roads have been made and can be made without a steam roller, but is is well known that before a roadway of crushed stone can be made smooth by travel, weeks must elapse, horses be lamed by the sharp pointed stones, and all light vehicles wrenched and strained. With the roller, in two or three days a smooth, hard surface is obtained that is a luxury to ride over, a surface, too, that turns water well, and can be kept in order with a very moderate amount of attention. Good roads afford comfort to the residents of this city, and are a considerable attraction to people of wealth who are looking about for places of Summer residence, people whose visits to this city are a matter of some interest to us. Newport has made few more judicious investments than in the steam roller.

PARTY AND COUNTRY, OR COUNTRY AND PARTY?

In less than three weeks Congress will meet and upon a House of Representatives largely Democratic will devolve the duty of selecting the man who shall hold the next to the highest political office in the country. The speaker of the House of Representatives is second only to the President of the United States in the power he possesses and the influence he exerts over the welfare of the country. The work of Congress is done mainly by committees and by the Speaker's power of appointing all the House committees he exercises an influence over legislation that is hardly less than that of the President. Besides this, the Speaker may exert great power by his interpretation and application of the rules of order. Nor is it beyond his power to regulate very largely the fullness and fairness of debate, for he has not the eyes of Argus, and the two he possesses may be so judiciously managed that certain persons can never catch them if certain other persons are seeking them. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that the Speakership be conferred upon the right man.

The House which is to meet next month is overwhelmingly Democratic. The policies of Mr. Blaine's successor is, therefore, a foregone conclusion. But the Democratic party is seriously divided on the currency question. Many of the Democratic Congressmen from the South and West are uncompromising advocates of irredeemable paper money, and some of them are not unjustly suspected of even graver heresies. This question of the currency is the most important one now before the public. Already the Fabian policy pursued by the Republican party has done injury to the public interests. The time has come when the question of the currency must not be postponed to give time for buncombe orations about oppressed humanity or the sovereignty of the people. It is of the greatest importance that the Speaker be no mere theorist, or demagogue, but a man who has read history and learned something from the experience of his own and foreign countries and who is, therefore, a hard-money man. By his own personal and official influence and through the committees on currency and banking a man who believes a promise to pay a dollar as good as a dollar may inflict immense injury on the country.

The Democrats will undoubtedly have two candidates for the speakership, one representing a sound financial system, and the other a system that has again and again been tried and which has always ended in disaster. It is quite possible that a majority of the Democratic Congressmen will vote for the latter. In this emergency the question arises, What is the duty of Republican members? They may vote for Mr. Blaine, or they may vote for the hard-money Democratic candidate. To do the former would be waste their power in an empty compliment to an excellent man, but one who can not possibly be elected. To do the latter would be to ensure the election of a speaker of sound views on the most momentous issue of the day, and consult the very highest interests of the country at large.

The Boston Journal endorses the Springfield Union when it advises the Republicans to let the Democrats commit political suicide. "Hands off," says the Union, "and let the Democrats furnish one more conclusive proof to the nation of their hopeless and radical financial dishonesty. It will be a pious work of blessed results."

A "pious work," forsooth! And have affairs come to such a pass that the possession of the government by the Republican party is more important than the welfare of the nation? Blind, unreasoning partisanship, political bigotry, could go no further. It is alleged with some appearance of truth that the canal reforms of Gov. Tilden have been resisted by Republicans in New York because the honest administration of affairs would help the Democratic party. And so in the case of the Speakership Republicans are advised to stand by and let the country be cursed with a paper money Speaker and paper money committees that certain Republicans may be elected to office next year. The moral and financial interests of the country may suffer, say such partisans, the Treasury may be robbed, the more the better, because if the government is mismanaged by the Democrats the people will elect us to office next year! Is it using too strong a term to denounce such conduct as this as treason? When men seek the political advancement of themselves or their associates rather than the good of the country what other term does their conduct deserve? If the country needs a sound currency it is the duty of Republicans to provide that currency as much when Democrats are in power as when they themselves are in power.

Fitz John Porter was cashiered from the army because it was believed that he considered it a "pious work" to stand by and let the parties who preferred Pope to McClellan commit military suicide. He looked on the latter as the Journal and Union look on the Republican party. The country might go to the dogs before he would help McClellan's rival. He thought if Pope was defeated McClellan would be reinstated, just as the Journal and Union think that if the Democratic party injures the country the Republican party will be reinstated. Fitz John Porter was cashiered: what will they deserve who cast complimentary ballots for Mr. Blaine and permit the inflationists to win the victory and get the control of the House of representatives?

PERIODICALS.

Littell's Living Age.

A new serial by Mrs. Oliphant is begun in the number of The Living Age for the week ending Nov. 13th. The same number also contains an elaborate and interesting article on the Atomic Theory of Lucretius, contrasted with modern Theories of Atoms, the Constitution of Matter and the Origination of Life; an instalment of "The Dilema," a powerful story of East Indian life; a Schoolmaster of the Renaissance; Naturalness of Character; Two Danes; Lauzun; Philip Stanhope, and other choicest reading of the day, both prose and poetry. With fifty two numbers, of sixty four large pages each, (aggregating over 3000 pages a year) the subscription price ($8) is low; or still better, for $10.50 any one of the American $1 monthlies or weeklies is sent with The Living Age for a year, both post-paid.

The present is a good time to subscribe, as those remitting now for the year 1876, will receive the intervening numbers of The Living Age gratis. Littell & Gay, Boston, are the publishers.

CENTENNIAL BALLOON RIDES.—Among the attractions at the centennial next year will be an aeronautic observatory, of which Professor Samuel A. King will have the management. It is the intention of Professor King to construct a number of balloons of the strongest silk, expressly for use during the continuance of the celebration, with which "captive" ascensions will be made daily. These balloons will be capable of carrying from six to ten persons each, and they will be allowed to ascend to an altitude of from one to two thousand feet, the trip lasting from twenty minutes to half an hour. Strong ropes will be attached to the balloons, and they will be drawn down again by a windlass worked by steam. Every precaution will be taken by Professor King to prevent the possibility of accident, and his well known skill and carefulness are sufficient assurance that no danger need be apprehended. The gas used will be hydrogen, which possesses much greater ascensive power than that produced from coal. Works for the manufacture of the gas will be erected on the ground. In addition to the regular captive ascensions the professor will twice or three times each week make "free" ascensions—that is, regular aerial trips, for the accommodation of those desiring to indulge in that exhilerating pastime. One of the balloons used for these trips will be the large and beautiful "Buffalo," built in this city. When the balloons are not in use—during stormy weather and at night—they will be kept ready filled and housed in a building to be constructed for the purpose. This enterprise will doubtless prove an interesting and popular feature of the great celebration, and under the personal direction of Professor King, who is without doubt the most accomplished aeronaut of the age, must also be successful and remunerative.—[Buffalo Commercial.

—Mrs. Edward King and family went to New York last evening. It is understood that they will spend the Winter in Europe.

—T. B. Whitney, whose name has appeared in the papers in connection with a recent suicide, and his mother and brother, are in town.

—Complaint is made that the boys are amusing themselves by throwing stones from slings, thereby endangering life and property.

The iron gates at the Redwood street entrance to the Redwood Library grounds many years ago stood in front of the residence of the founder of the library.

—Senator Anthony will deliver his lecture on the Thirty-sixth Congress here next Tuesday night. While he is here he will be the guest of the Hon. C. C. Van Zandt.

—The Fall parade of the Artillery will occur on Thursday, weather permitting. In the morning the company will have battalion drill on the King lot, Annandale road and in the afternoon they will make a street parade in full uniform.

—A match for $200 has been arranged to come off next Thursday, at the Middletown trotting park, between George Lineham's b. g. Frank, and C. H. Morse's g. g. Lon., but 3 in 5 to harness, catch weight. There will also be a trot tomorrow.

—The Wickford line has just put on a new hand mail wagon. It has two wheels, is covered and nicely ornamented. The mails are put in at the postoffice, the covers locked down, the wagon taken to the landing at Wickford and the bags put on board the train.

—Mr. W. G. Turner, formerly of Newport, and now living in Florence, Italy, has recently finished two medallion heads of "Night" and "Morning," and a statue called the "Fisherman's Daughter," and is now busy on an allegorical work—all intended for the centennial exhibition.

—The ladies who have charge of the turkey supper to be given in behalf of Emmanuel church have made abundant preparations for the entertainment of their guests, and it is hoped that the attendance will be very large. It is an easy way to do good,—by eating a good supper, and everybody ought to try it.

—The American Steamboat Company recently received a letter severely criticising Capt. Kelley for forbidding passengers shooting at wild fowl from the deck of the steamer. The letter was unsigned and was consigned to the flames. If the captain's course was followed by other steamboat officers a reform would be started in the right direction.

—The wreckers have succeeded in getting another load of coal out of the wrecked schooner Mary E. McHale, and have taken it to Stonington whence it will be sent to Providence by the schooner Thomas P. Cooper. The coal was shipped to the Gas Light Company of this city, but as the salt water has unfitted it for gas making the underwriters have sold it to a Providence firm to be used under a steam boiler. The loss on the coal amounts, thus, to a very small sum.

—Night was made hideous last evening in the vicinty of John, Prospect Hill and Spring streets by several small rows. Officer J. M. Carr was called to one row at the foot of John street, but before he could get assistance the crowd dispersed. Several of the residents of John and Prospect Hill streets got out of bed and raising their windows shouted at the top of their voices for the police, but the midnight marauders took warning and made good their escape.

MITCHELL BROUGHT HERE FOR TRIAL.—At noon today Capt. Hammond arrived here accompanied by Officer Dayton of New Bedford and Jesse D. Mitchell who was at once placed in the Middletown street jail. Mitchell was the man who was arrested in New Bedford for horse stealing and confessed to being the man who knocked down and robbed Dr. Sands. Gov. Lippitt made a requisition on Gov. Gaston for him, and he has been brought here to be tried before the court of common pleas now in session. Mitchell was under an indictment in Massachusetts but as he was wanted here on a more weighty charge Gov. Gaston courteously allowed him to be taken out of the state.

A NEW LIBRARY FOR MIDDLETOWN.

A free library association was organized in Middletown last Thursday night. Messrs. John B. Gould, Edward P. Chase and James A. Brown were appointed trustees and Daniel M. Chase was chosen librarian. The library will be located in the school house, district number one, on the west road. A former association, the Miantonomoh, has donated its books numbering some four hundred volumes, to the new library. Liberal donations have been made by Col. T. W. Higginson, Dr. A. A. Saunders, George Bowen, Samuel Brown and others of this city. Further aid will be thankfully received by the trustees or the librarian. As soon as the number of volumes reaches five hundred the association will receive the benefit of state aid under the act which provides that any free public library numbering five hundred volumes shall receive the sum of fifty dollars annually and twenty-five dollars for each additional five hundred volumes, the sum donated to any library not to exceed five hundred dollars. At present the library will be open once a week, but it is hoped that arrangements will soon be made to have it open daily.

Contributions of books to the library may be left at the office of Mr. Clarke, superintendent of schools, at the Clark-street school house.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

TUESDAY MORNING—SECOND DAY.

The court of common pleas of this state within and for the county of Newport commenced its session here today, although technically it is the second day of the term, as third Monday of the month is the legal day of the court. The court came in soon after ten o'clock Judge Burges presiding when the grand jurors were called at once and empaneled. Judge Burges then charged them in regard to the probable duties that awaited their attention, occupying until 10.30 at which time the grand jury retired to their room. There are but few complaints to go before the grand jury, four at most. And their labors will be closed easily enough today.

After the retirement of the grand jury the court proceeded to call the docket, when quite an unusual number of cases were marked for trial, although the most of them, after all, may "flash in the pan," If not, the session will occupy the week at least, the trial of the criminal docket will probably come on in the morning—that is, if indictments are found, and so there be any criminal docket—there are several criminal appealed cases which will be disposed if by trial or continuance, or by being nolpros'd, or otherwise as the case may be.

STATE MISCELLANY.

A whole family of shoplifters were cleverly entrapped at Providence Saturday evening, while their usual night business was in "full tide of successful experiment."

Enoch Burrows Pendleton, who died in Westerly, on Thursday evening, was a son of the late General Nathan Pendleton, and a brother of Hon. J. M. Pendleton. In 1861 he was appointed postmaster by President Lincoln, which office he held until March 1875, when he was succeeded by his son, Eugene B. Pendleton.

The three connected mills at Stillmanville, recently purchased of Messrs. Babcock & Moss by Messrs. F. R. White & Co., and now known as the Westerly Woolen Company, have been thoroughly overhauled, and two of the mills are now running. The old steam chimney has been raised 22 feet, making it 82 feet. The same power is used as heretofore, but judicious and economical changes have been made in its application. Fourteen mule heads of Davis & Furber's patent have been substituted for the old jack, at an outlay of $5,000. Connected with the force pumps are perforated pipes for sprinkling purposes in case of fire, in all the mills, and ten fire extinguishers have been provided. Also four ladders, or fire escapes, have been put in suitable localities upon the outside of the mills. The old wooden mill is being overhauled and painted within, and will start up sometime this Winter. The mills are now manufacturing fancy cassimeres, employ 140 hands, but when the other mill starts 250 persons will be employed. L. W. Arnold is the efficient superintendent.

THE POWER OF THE MIND TO RESIST KNOWLEDGE.

MINDS TOO INDOLENT TO BE WILLING TO ACQUIRE NEW IDEAS.—A HUMANE CAUTION TO INQUISITIVE PEOPLE.—OBJECTING TO NEW IDEAS BECAUSE THEY ARE NEW.—INSTANCES OF DELIBERATE IGNORANCE.—FAULTY REASONING.

There can be no more irksome task to many minds than to address themselves to subjects which require from them some accuracy of information. This is one of the reasons why questions are often intolerable. They awaken people to the fact that they know nothing; which matters little so long as they themselves are the only losers, for if they know nothing it is because they preferred to know nothing; and exposure is always a nuisance. Many persons who travel guard themselves jealously against the acquisition of new ideas; they are so tiring; they seem to stretch the mind hither and thither out of all its bearings. "Oh for a shop window!" they seem to cry, in the midst of museums and galleries, "for something familiar, some link between myself and what I see." Everybody knows this feeling more or less; it is a revolt against new knowledge, a taking refuge in our weaker selves, which is perfectly justifiable in its degree. Certainly inquiring minds are apt to be bores; people that will pursue and get to the bottom of subjects are great disturbers of the peace, unless this curiosity on their part is qualified by more sympathy than commonly belongs to it. It is well to tell children, "Never submit to be ignorant when you have knowledge at your elbow" but it is an axiom which requires modification in general society, where, as we have said, few persons are ignorant in an exceptional degree unless because they like it. These probers ought to know that most people like to think as little as they are compelled to think, that to fix or nail the mind on a subject is utterly alien to many an intelligence which is bright and active enough in its own grade; and they should be tender in obtruding their useful, instructive, and important topics upon reluctant yet ashamed ears. As zealous, reckless enquirers after truth, they may, with Locke, consider it a fair question how far these enemies of learning are, in knowledge and intellectual faculties, superior to a cockle or an oyster; but they should spare the feelings of their weaker creatures. The reception which we are all too prone to give to knowledge thrust upon us is that which a party of gossips might give to the invasion of a charitable or literary deputation. The people may be worthy folks in their way, their talk full of information or of utility to their neighbors, but what an interruption! and how willingly do the invaders see them depart, that they may relapse and unbend on the instant into the familiar trivialities."

It is sufficient reason to a great many people not to acquire new ideas, that they are new. "I know nothing about what that means, I am steadfastly resolved never to know anything about it." Even when their interests are involved, the strangeness and horror of novelty carries the day. A mother, for example, has a son at school or college, yet the whole phraseology of school and college life remains to the end more Greek to her. Little-go, moderations, class lists and what not, her mind is a chaos to them all; and because women do not play cricket, just as they do not yet go to college, the rules and machinery of that game are in like manner unattainable by the female mind. As an instance of feminine power to resist knowledge, we were struck the other day by a description of a High Church parson in Good Words, betraying an ignorance which we must regard as the more signal and remarkable considering the amount of dignified clerical teaching brought to bear on that favored periodical. The lady draws the portrait of the Rev. Tobias Choake, who fasted on Fridays and saints' days, advocated their auricular confession, and was suspected of wearing a hair shirt. This lady has lived through Oxford, Angelicanism, and Ritualistic movements to no better purpose than actually to suppose that the leaders of these parties regard saints' days not as feasts, but fasts—a case of scarcely less singular deadness to important knowledge in one line than was that quoted by Southey of the Liverpool merchant in another, who wrote to his bookseller for Milton's, Shakespeare's, and Dryden's works, and if any of those fellows wrote anything new, he was to send it as it came out. In both cases alike it is impossible that the truth should not have often enough sued for admission at eye and ear, only it was let slip at the time as being without interest to the non-recipient.

Many persons have the faculty of refusing and rejecting all knowledge that goes against their prejudices or inclinations. It is perfectly useless to enlighten them; they prefer a fog, and have a chemical faculty to produce it after every attempt to clear it away. Thus Dr. Manning has asserted that the Church of England cannot be what she claims to be, because there is so much infidelity among the English laity—an argument that requires him to ignore the fact of infidelity in France, Spain, and Italy. The policy of non-admissions generally which belongs to his school is based upon this obscure and willful ignorance. We may perceive indeed how very valuable this power of rejecting knowledge must be to all who have a strong line to take, and a theory to inculcate. Lacordaire, advocating the restoration of the monastic orders, quotes a saying of Napoleon that he did not fear the Spanish because "It is a nation fashioned by monks; and all monks are cowards." "And at the foot of the Pyrenees," cries the preacher, "he found Christians formed by monks; and his warriors who used to say that from the Pyrenees to the Baltic they had met nothing but children, confessed, in language both military and energetic, that they were more than men, that it was a war of giants. Spain had the signal honor of being the primary cause of that man's ruin." It suited the orator not to know that, in so far as Spain caused Napoleon's ruin, it was by bringing him in contact with a nation not formed by monks; and Lacordaire was no doubt able really to exclude this fact from his consciousness. And even where no principle is involved, that inobservance which is the reproach of commonplace ordinary sinners is the glory of some saints, of one of whom we are told that, after living in his cell some forty years he was found in entire ignorance of its form, color and furnishing.—[Saturday Review.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

THE NEW REMINGTON.

(From the Boston Post of Oct. 14th.)

Last evening a large number of gentlemen, by invitation, assembled at the formal opening of their new business house, No. 146 Tremont street, for the purpose of inspecting the recent wonderful improvement which they have invented and applied to sowing machines. The principal features in these machines are their simplicity and durability. While the company do not deprecate other machines, they claim that theirs are so complete as to overcome all the objections that are found in other shuttle sewing machines. The machine and attachments were minutely examined by several prominent inventors and mechanicians and pronounced to be the most perfect and labor saving sewing machines in this country or Europe.

This popular machine is the labor of Mr. J. W. Jones, (the inventor of the Singer) who, in conjunction with Mr. Remington and the large facilities afforded by his immense works for the successful improvement and simplifying of what has heretofore been considered very intricate and difficult, has brought out what he terms the "Remington," a machine entirely divested of cog-wheels and rotary cams, and as perfect in all its particulars as good workmanship can make it. The superior productions of these machines and their elegant finish will make them highly popular.

Dragging Out Existence.

The nervous, weakly invalid does not enjoy life, but merely "drags out existence," as the phrase is Unfitted for the active pursuits of life, and incapable of partaking of its pleasures, to which health alone can give a zest; disinclined to social intercourse, and a prey to melancholy, the valetudinarian is indeed an object of pity. Yet there is nothing in all this that cannot be remedied by that genial alterative, tonic and nervine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which supplies deficient stamina, braces the nervous system, and overcomes those bodily irregularities to which nervous weakness is most frequently attributable. Diseases of the kidney and bladder imperfect digestion and alarming troubles are fertile sources of debility. Their eradication, however, becomes a matter of certainty when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are systematically used for that purpose. The Bitters likewise annihilate and prevent fever and ague and other debilitating febrile complaints of a malarial nature. nov16-n&j-1w

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, FOR THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, AND COLDS.

The great virtue of this medicine is that it ripens the matter and throws it out of the system, purifies the blood, and thus effects a cure.

SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, FOR THE CURE OF DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, &c.

The Tonic produces a healthy action of the stomach, creating an appetite, forming chyle, and curing the most obstinate cases of Indigestion.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, FOR THE CURE OF LIVER COMPLAINT, &c.

These Pills are alterative, and produce a healthy action of the liver, without the least danger, as they are free from calomel, and yet more efficacious in restoring a healthy action of the liver.

These remedies are a certain cure for Consumption as the Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter and purifies the blood. The Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, create a healthy bile, and remove all diseases of the liver, often a cause of Consumption. The Sea Weed Tonic gives tone and strength to the stomach, makes a good digestion, and enables the organs to form good blood; and thus creates a healthy circulation of healthy blood. The combined action of these medicines, as thus explained, will cure every case of Consumption, if taken in time, and the use of the medicines persevered in.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner SIXTH and ARCH STREETS, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters of advice must be addressed. nov6-1m

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Vice President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.

Vice President Wilson slept well last night, and continues to gain strength very rapidly. He is feeling very comfortable to day, and begins talking of going to Massachusetts, but the doctors insist on his remaining here and taking complete rest until his recovery is thoroughly assured. At 11½ o'clock this forenoon the Vice President was able to be dressed, and sitting before the fire in his room had a short interview with Attorney General Pierrepont and ex-Senator Fenton. The condition of the Vice President continues to improve. He sat up three hours today. Dr. Baxter thinks he will be strong enough by next Monday for Massachusetts.

FROM NEW YORK.

DISASTER AT SEA.

Brig Morne Wrecked and Fifteen Lives Lost.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.

Ship Ravenserag, which arrived tonight, reports Oct. 26th, latitude 46 deg. 28 min. longitude 35 deg. 26min. took 14 men from the brig Morne, from St. Pierre, Newfoundland, for San Salvia, France, which had capsized the day before. The Morne had 17 passengers and a crew of 12. On the 25th she was struck by a gale which swept everything from the deck, and lost boats. Thirteen of the passengers and two of the crew were lost.

MOODY AND SANKEY.

The Tabernacle Prayer Meeting.

The lower part of the Tabernacle was filled this morning, but in the gallery there was many empty benches. Deacon Hawley announced the requests for prayer. He said there were twenty one requests from towns and cities for prayer [for churches; fourteen requests direct from churches, seventy from mothers for their children, thirty from sisters for brothers and a large number from backsliders and others. Mr. Lansing then offered prayer, and Mr. Moody said we will have for our subject this morning, "Praise," and the read the 146th and 147th Psalms. All who have breath should, be said, praise the Lord. Mr. Moody then offered a short prayer. "Oh Happy Day, Happy Day" was sung, after which the meeting was opened for remarks and peayer. Mr. Parker offered prayer, after which members of the Scotch Covenanting church made a few remarks upon the feeling among the members of that denomination with regard to Messrs. Moody and Sankey. They looked upon their coming at first with suspicion, but he was glad to say there was not a family now among them but was pleased and thanked God. After praying and singing, the congregation were dismissed. The churches in South Brooklyn are making arrangements to hold union prayer meetings every morning at 7.30 o'clock, to begin Monday, Nov. 22d.

THE WACO DISASTER.

What the Investigation Reveals.

An investigation was held today by the local board of steamboat inspectors to ascertain if steamer City of Waco, burned off Galveston bar, had on board any kerosene or petroleum oil. The evidence of Richard J. Holmes, the stevedore who stowed the cargo, showed that three hundred cans of refined petroleum was stowed upon the upper deck of the steamer, part aft and part forward; that it was distant 100 feet from any fire, and that no other freight of an inflamable nature was on board.

MISCELLANEOUS.

GUIBORD'S BONES.

The Funeral Today.—The Clumsy Sarcophagus to be Discarded.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13.

Today Mr. Dautre went to the proprietors of the evening papers and obtained a promise from them not to publish anything today relating to the preparations for Guibord's funeral which takes place tomorrow at noon. Dautre fears that if the preparations are published beforehand, the rioters will take steps to harass the procession and cause bloodshed. Dautre, this forenoon, formally entered a writ in the supreme court, calling on any one of the judges of the superior court to issue an order for the funeral. It has been decided not to use the sarcophagus, and the body will be buried in a wooden coffin alone. The commissioner of the Dominion police has ordered out military to the number of 965 men. All of this force will be required as some 5,000 people are expected in the cemetery, and though troops have received orders to keep all persons out of the ground who have no business inside, the order can only be a dead letter. All the members of the Institute Canadien will go up heavily armed. The feeling of the people is anxious and uneasy. No notice was taken of the matter in any of the Roman Catholic churches yesterday.

THE ST. LOUIS WHISKEY RING.

Assignment of Cases for Trial.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15.

The cases of William McKee of the Globe-Democrat, and Constantine Maguire ex-revenue collector, indicted for complicity in the whiskey frauds, have been set for trial December 15th, Hon. Dan Voorhees of Indiana, their counsel, being unable to attend court here previous to that time.

One of the cases against General John McDonald, ex-supervisor of this district, in which he is charged with conspiring to defraud the government, and for not reporting to his superior officers knowledge of irregularities in whiskey making, is set for Monday, (today.)

The case of W. G. Avery, of Washington, charge the same as McDonald's, is set for Wednesday. He will be defended by B. F. Butler.

Thirteen distillers and rectifiers, seven gaugers and store keepers, and one deputy collector have withdrawn plea of not guilty, and entered a plea guilty up to the present time. The remainder of those so far indicted for complicity in frauds are McDonald, Avery, Maguire, McKee, Ray, a nephew of McKee, who served as gauger for him; and they still declare their innocence.

Previous to being sentenced, Saturday, by Judge Krekel, Col. Joyce made a speech to the court in which he declared his innocence of the charges against him in the emphatic terms, and asserted that his conviction was secured by perjured testimony of self-convicted thieves, who acknowledged their robbery of the government for years.

Trial of Ex-Supervisor McDonald.

The case of Gen. John McDonald, ex-supervisor of internal revenue in this district, was called in the United States district court, today. His counsel endeavored to have the case laid over a few days until certain papers could be received from Washington, but Judge Treat declined to grant the request and a jury was empannelled and the prosecution opened.

MEXICAN OUTRAGES.

Reports and Recommendation of the Federal Grand Jury.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. Nov. 15.

The federal grand jury in their report say that from Brownsville to Penas river a distance of 500 miles in length and 100 in width, to Nueces river, all American ranchettos have been ordered to leave their homes by Mexican raiders, on pain of death, and that a hundred thousand head of stolen cattle are driven to Mexico annually by Mexican marauders. A number of federal officials have been assassinated, post offices burned, custom houses robbed, mail carriers and inspectors of customs killed while in the discharge of their duties, and the perpetrators of these crimes have gone unpunished, and general insecurity of life and property prevails on the border. The jury found eighty indictments, and urge decisive action on the part of the state and general governments to punish criminals and protect the inhabitants against the Mexican banditti.

A LESSON IN ADJECTIVES.—"Well my son, you have got into grammar, have you?" said a proud sire to his thickest chip the other night. "Let me hear you compare some adjectives."

Chip—"All right, dad. Little, less least; big, bigger, beast; mow, mower, most—"

Proud Sire—"Hold on, sir; that's not right, you—"

Chip—"Toe, tore, toast; show, shore, snout; go, gore, gout; row, roar, rout—"

Proud Sire—"Stop, I say, those adj—"

Chip—"Drink, drank, drunk; chink, chank, chunk—"

Proud Sire—"You infernal little fool! What in thunder—"

Chip—"Good, better, best; wood, wetter west; bad, worser, worst; bile, biler, bilerbust; sew, sewer, sup; pew, poor, pup; oh, jimini, dad! o-o-O-W!"

The outraged parent had broken into the recitation with a boot-jack.

THE COLORED VOTE IN MISSISSIPPI.

THE NEGROES GONE BACK ON.—INTIMIDATION.—VOTED BY BETTING AND TREATING.—YELLOW BALLOTS.—RESULTS.

More colored men voted with the whites here than ever before—yes, more than twice as many as at any other election. They were chiefly influenced in this by the non-interference of the government. Because the government did not step in at the request of Governor Ames they have got the notion that it has "gone back on them," as they call it, and now, being without its support, they must cultivate friendly relations in politics with the whites. They know that they cannot maintain a contest with them without government support, and as they have been deprived of that support the next best thing is to accept the inevitable.

Another influence was the well-known fact that the whites are in arms; that they intend no longer to live under negro rule if they have to fight to get out. The negroes do not want to fight. They know what that means. So many voted with the whites as a matter of conciliation, preferring to see Democrats elected than to have a row in which they would be the chief sufferers. Half the servants at the hotel where I stopped voted the Democratic ticket, to the great astonishment and gratification of the proprietor, who counted on only three.

I witnessed many strange scenes at the polls, and around about among the crowd. This sort of thing was repeated often by men who were supplied with money for the purpose. A man would select his darkey and operate on him in this wise:

"Uncle, have you voted?"

"No, sah."

"Going to vote?"

"Yes, sah."

"How?"

"The 'Publican ticket, sah."

"Can't I persuade you to vote the Democratic ticket?"

"No, sah."

"You are afraid to vote it, are you?"

"No, sah; not a bit."

"I'll bet two dollars you are afraid to step up there and vote the Democratic ticket."

"Mo 'fraid? No, sah; dis nigger an't 'frid; he ain't the skeery sort, he ain't."

"Well, I'll bet two dollars you are afraid to do it."

"Put up your money. I'll take dat bet, sah; I'm no skeery nigger."

The money is handed to a third party. The negro is given a Democratic ticket, and accompanied to the polls by a white man, who sees that it is voted. Then the negro returns, and is paid the "wager" he has won. A neat way that to buy votes, and at the same time escape the penalty of the law. A hundred dollars thus expended goes some distance in adding to Democratic "gains."

I saw a negro and a white man go to the polls side by side, and each vote the Democratic ticket. Then the white man took the negro to a cozy nook, gave him two drinks of whiskey and a handful of cigars. I could not say that he bought the vote; he only took the occasion to treat his colored friend.

An old negro man, apparently too old to work, and looking to be really needy, stood near the polls with a Republican ticket. A white boy, not over thirteen, said to him: "Uncle, why don't you vote the Democratic ticket? these carpet-baggers don't care anything for you; they'd let you starve to death."

"I dunno but they would," replied the old man, "for I'm hungry now. If you'll get me a little money to get some bread to take home I'll vote the Democratic ticket."

The boy's face brightened up. He went to the bottom of his pockets, turned them inside out, but he could find nothing but a five cent nickel. Giving that and a Democratic ticket to the old man he went after more, and I have no doubt gained a vote for the Democracy.

To protect negroes who could not read, the Republicans printed their tickets on yellow paper. The Democrats straightway printed some on the same sort of paper, hoping to gain something by the mistakes which men who do not know a letter in the book would naturally make.

What is the result? Tonight, in Jackson, the feeling between the races is better than it has been in seven years. The Democrats have carried the county and the state, and are overflowing with praises for their "colored friends," who voted with them. The Republican officials here acknowledge that the party in Mississippi is done for. Nothing short of the power of the federal government can set it on its legs again.—[Cor. of the Cincinnati Commercial.

A SNOW PLANT FOR THE CENTENNIAL.—A notable curiosity which California will contribute to the Centennial will be a snow plant, brought from Calaveras county, near the big trees. Mr. Koozer secured the plant through the agency of a character called "Trapper Smith," who is remarkable in that vicinity for his endurance in long marches, and the amount of whiskey he can carry, besides other luggage. The plant is the largest ever exhibited on the coast. The cones number fifteen, are blood-red, and grow together in a bunch. The plant derives its name from the fact that it forces its way up through the snow in the Spring of the year, and the edges of the cones have an appearance of frost covered by a fine white fringe, which grows in the form of a crystallization. The plant is botanically classed as a parasite, a sort of vegetable "fungus," which generally takes root in some rotten tree which lies just below the surface. It is now at the American Exchange Hotel, San Francisco, enclosed in a box and growing. It will be kept in that state until next June, when it will be forwarded to the Centennial, where a place has been reserved for it.—[Philadelphia Star.
